Surprise Party.

Thursday evening, Aug 20, the quiet little village of Bunker Hill was woke from a peaceful slumber by the merry voices of young people, who came from neighboring towns, to give Miss Elsie E. Rule, the only daughter of Mr and Mrs Jas. Rule, a surprise party. Miss Rule, who is very popular among her many friends, left for Sacramento Tuesday morning, where she intends entering high school. All who know her join in wishing her great success in her latest undertaking.

The evening was spent in playing games and singing, and three tables beautifully decorated, were set out on the lawn, and supper was served at midnight under the glare of the many electric lights that were strewn here and there.

Those present were: Misses Alma and Susie Witte, Madge and Lizzie Ford, Marie Arthur, Mabel and Henrietta Perryman, Emily Rojas, Beatrice Jeffery, Alice Hultad, Ida Isaminger, Elsie Rule, Alice Oates, Bertha Marchand, Messrs Sidney and Ben Bennetts, Ray Witte, Frank Kelly, Louie Cassella, James Epling, James Bodinnar, Robert Trudgeon, Wm. Corim, Morton Hambley, James and Ed. Jeffery, Fred Labadie, Tom Marchand, Elton, Walter and Arthur Rule, Mr and Mrs Jas. Rule, Mr and Mrs Arthur Palmer, Mr and Mrs Lawrence Poundstone and baby, Josie Darling and Mrs Jas. Rule, sr. After supper a few more games were played, and bidding one and all good night, they departed after spending a good jolly evening. "Bunker Hill is awake after all."

IONE AND EASTERN R. R. CHANGES HANDS.

Bought in for the Bondholders for $225,000.

Last Saturday sheriff Gregory, according to published announcement sold the Ione and Eastern Railroad, to satisfy a judgment obtained in the superior court of Amador county for the sum of $423,217.40 in favor of the Union Trust Company of San Francisco. At the sale there were present from the outside Charles Erickson, G. Peterson, the contractors of the road, also C. Fessler, John Raggio, the receiver, under whose management the road has been operated for the past year, and Frank J. Solinsky, the attorney of the judgment creditor. There was but one bid, and that was made by attorney Solinsky for the sum of $225,000, as trustees of the bondholders. The property was sold for that bid.

As we are informed the property sold represents the entire holdings of the Ione and Eastern railroad, including franchises, right of way, real estate, rolling stock, stages, wagons, horses, etc., everything except a certain electric pole line between Martells and Ione, which is the subject of a separate judgment by Fred Rabb against the company, which judgment it is understood the purchasers will pay off.

The only exception is a contract with the American River Electric Company, which it is presumed the purchasers were not anxious to buy.

The difference between the amount bid for the road and the amount of the judgment is $198,217.40. The explanation of this, as we understand it, is that the parties interested in the judgment held 356 bonds of the corporation out of a total issue of 360 bonds at $1000, representing $360,000; the difference between the face of the bonds and the judgment being represented by default in interest payments. So that practically the bondholders take the road in satisfaction of their claims. The holders of $4000 of bonds outside the judgment will have to take per rata, the same as the judgment creditors in extinguishment of their claims.

The sale is an out and out one, and the purchasers take possession as soon as the receipt for the purchase price is given, and the sheriff's deed is issued thereon.

It is not like the foreclosure of an ordinary mortgage, which allows one year to the debtor in which to redeem. In this case the Union Trust Company forecloses a trust deed, in behalf of the bondholders.

Under the receivership it is said the road has been operated at a small profit. Previously it had been a losing proposition from the start, and with a bonded indebtedness of $360,000 there was no possibility of pulling out, making improvements and extensions which are deemed absolutely necessary to put the road in a position to pay.

With all the indebtedness wiped out, the new owners will be in a position to issue new bonds for improvements and extensions and will not be handicapped with a heavy liability under the original issue of bonds.

Altogether the change ought to prove a benefit to the county in general, the traveling public and shippers. Rumor has it that arrangements will be made to extend the line to the timber region, as this step is considered necessary to making it a remunerative investment. The extensive flings upon the timber land in the mountains indicates something of this kind. In the practical management of the road there is not likely to be any change. The officials under the receivership have managed it efficiently and economically, and given the utmost satisfaction to all concerned.

What is Best for Indigestion?

Mr A. Robinson of Drumquinn, Ontario, has been troubled for years with indigestion and recommends Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets as "the best medicine I ever used." It troubled with indigestion or constipation give them a trial. They are certain to prove beneficial. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. Price 25 cents. Samples free at Jackson's drug store, Spagnoli, prop.

Plan Festivity.

The Amador Society has planned a festivity for the evening of Saturday, August 29, to be held at East Twelfth street and Twenty fourth avenue. There will be an informal program of story telling and college songs. The invitation is quite general and cordial to all who have lived in Amador county, to join in the contemplated reunion.—Oakland Enquirer.

MINING NOTES.

Jackson Valley Coal.—The extensive coal lands of Jackson valley are being bonded by C. R. Downs of Sutter Creek. At one point this coal bed has been prospected to a very limited extent, namely on the Fitzsimmons' place. Here the coal formation is met with at a depth of 50 feet, and the mineral is found to be of a much superior grade to that of the mines around Ione. The vein is eleven feet thick; and all the coal that has been mined finds a ready sale in the local markets. Some of it is sold in Jackson, and is found to be more economical than wood. There is talk of running a railroad to tap the coal lands of this valley, which would be not more than six or seven miles in length, over a comparatively level country. The coal is of a low grade character, but adapted for many purposes, and can be mined at small cost. It only needs cheap transportation to make Jackson valley a prosperous mining section.

Gravel Mining.—James Mushett and E. W. Kelly have started to work a piece of placer ground on the middle fork of Jackson creek on the Kelly ranch about a mile northeast of town. It is claimed that this tract has never been mined before. The two parties named have secured the permission of the owner to mine there, and should the gravel turn out to be of a paying character, they have enough work ahead to last for years. The diggings all along the creek bottoms were richly laden with gold in the early days.

Bellweather.—The negotiations for the bonding of this property, better known now as the Bright claim, have made no further progress since our last report. The property being a part of the Bright estate, now in process of probate, it cannot be bonded on the same terms as though it were under individual ownership. It is hoped that the matter will be arranged, but it will take several months before anything in the shape of development work can be undertaken.

'HER ONE GREAT SIN.'

This society comedy drama was presented in Love's hall Wednesday evening by the company traveling under that name. They have made a specialty of this one play, and perform only one night in a place. The piece drew a crowded house, and the performance gave general satisfaction. The magnet that drew the audience was the announcement, that Miss Florence Stanley, who takes the star role, would wear in the last act the directorie gown, an elaborate dress specially designed by Hale Bros., of San Francisco and which serves as a good advertisement for that firm. But apart from this attraction the performance was a really meritorious one.

Cheapest accident insurance.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Stops the pain and heals the wound. All druggists sell it.

Nominated for Assemblyman.

We notice from the Sacramento papers, that our former townsman, Silas Penry has received the nomination for assemblyman in the sixteenth district on the democratic ticket. This is a portion of the city of Sacramento, and is strongly republican. The present incumbent is Grove L. Johnson, who in 1906 defeated his democratic opponent by 426 votes. At the last election the vote was as follows: Grove L. Johnson, rep., 1332; C. M. Beckwith, dem., 966; C. F. Woodward, socialist, 108; T. A. Cody, union labor, 625. Of course, a democrat running in such a strong republican district has a slim show of success under the most favorable circumstances, especially when the election of a United States senator is in issue, as is the case this year. Johnson has been nominated by the republicans to succeed himself, and there is little doubt that he will be re-elected.

Penry, the democratic nominee, lived in this county for many years, and is a brother of W. M. Penry, the proprietor of the Dispatch. He was district attorney of this county for one term. In the second term of Grover Cleveland he was appointed register of the Sacramento land office, and moved his family to that city. At the close of his four years' term he continued his residence there, and has been practicing law, paying special attention to land office business.

Enjoyable Party.

Miss Mabel Bolitho entertained a number of friends at her home on Sutter street, on Saturday evening. The evening was spent in playing cards, games and music. Also a guessing contest of which Miss M. Norman won first prize and F. Hensley the consolation prize. At midnight all partook of daintily served refreshments. Those present were: Misses Minnie Gardella, Mayne Norman, Amelia Piccardo, Mabel Bolitho, Messrs Chas Parker, Frank Hensley, Joe Gardella, Will Tam and Julius Piccardo. After midnight the party broke up, all having spent an enjoyable evening.

The Passion Play.

The Passion Play, or the illustrated life of Christ, was presented in the moving picture show in Love's hall for three evenings this week, and made a decided hit, the hall being crowded on each occasion. Some were greatly entertained by the scenes purporting to portray the history of the savior from birth to ascension. Others, however, were disappointed because some of the incidents were left out. It is remarkable how little the masses of the people know of the gospel of Christ. This was apparent because some of the prominent events were inexplicable to spectators of the moving pictures. If parents would insist upon their children attending Sunday school there would not be such a lack of knowledge of New Testament history in the next generation.

PLYMOUTH.

From Record.

Two of our former residents, we notice by the papers, have passed into the great beyond, the late John Piper who left this county for Bisbee, Arizona, and was buried in San Francisco. We have not learned the cause of his death. And Mr Thornton who for some years conducted a mine here, died at his home in San Francisco and had attained the age of 73 years.

Mrs C. DeVore and Mrs Patton (her sister), accompanied by Mrs L. Gregg, left here one day last week in their carriage for Sacramento, making a visit to the former's mother, Mrs Pickett of the Cosumnes. On the way, whilst driving through the field near the house, one of the horses took fright and ran away with them, stopping at a large anchor wire near the hop field. Mrs DeVore and Mrs Patton were thrown about 16 feet from the carriage. Fortunately they fell on rather soft earth or it would have been much worse. As it is Mrs Patton was very badly hurt—had a large cut above the eye and the eye also injured, and she was severely bruised on her side. Mrs DeVore escaped with some bad bruises but not on her face. The twin babies were in the carriage with Mrs Gregg, but with great presence of mind, she held on to them or they would surely have been throw out and most likely killed. They were fortunate in being able to return home which they did on Sunday evening. They did not drive the runaway horses home.

Granulated Sore Eyes Cured.

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes, says Martin Boyd of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. I bought one box and used about two-thirds of it and my eyes have not given me any trouble since." This salve is for sale by Jackson's drug store, Spagnoli, prop.

Quintely Wedded.

George Raymond and Mrs Anna M. Fish were quietly married Wednesday afternoon. The affair has been on the tapis for some time, and a comfortable home in the dwelling house of the Oneta estate, near the National hotel had been furnished for their reception. Wednesday afternoon the license was obtained from the clerk's office, and the pair repaired to the residence of the Episcopal minister, Rev. E. U. Brun, and were made man and wife. They immediately thereafter took possession of their cozy home quarters. The groom has been in the tailoring business in this city for several years, and his bride has been employed in his establishment near the Broadway bridge for the past couple of years. The Ledger extends congratulations, wishing the couple a long and happy matrimonial life.

Petitions Against Increase of Liquor License.

Three petitions are being circulated for signatures against the proposed increase of retail liquor licenses within the city limits of Jackson from $15 to $45 per quarter. One is in charge of Vic Rocco, another of W. O. Green and the other of Jos. Dalo. There petitions are being signed by property holders and business men generally, and simply request the board of city trustees not to pass the ordinance now before them providing for the increased license tax. The petitions will be presented to the trustees for their action at their next regular meeting night on next Thursday. Up to yesterday one of the petitions had over 60 names attached hereto.

Improving Schoolhouses.

The school trustees throughout the county have taken steps to make needed improvements to the school building and grounds preparatory to the commencement of the school term next month. There is more activity in this direction than has been manifested for many years past. Following are some of the improvements which have been made in the districts named:

Avena—Sides of the school house repaired and building repainted inside and out.

Middle Bar—New roof.

Stony Creek—Repainted inside and outside.

New York Ranch—Thoroughly repaired.

Pine Grove—Newly painted both inside and outside.

Drytown—New roof, one room repaired and painted.

Quartz Mountain—Thoroughly repaired.

Oleta—Painted on the outside and repaired.

Enterprise—Cleared off the school grounds.

Camp Opra—Fenced the school lot, and repaired the building.

Williams—New roof, and repainted inside and out.

Milligan—New roof.

Ione—The trustees of the grammar school are putting in a fire escape, divided at the top so as to provide two exits.

Greatly Underestimated.

"Bobby," asked his Sunday school teacher, "do you know how many disciples there were?" The little boy promptly said that he did and answered, "Twelve." Then he went on, "And I know how many Pharisees there were too."

"Indeed!"

"Yes'm. There was just one less than there was disciples."

"Why, how do you know that? It is nowhere stated how many Pharisees there were."

"I thought everybody knew it," said Bobby. "The Bible says, 'Beware of the seven of the Pharisees,' doesn't it?"

The Grandest.

"What is the grandest thing in the universe?" asks Victor Hugo. "A storm at sea," he answers and continues, "And what is grander than a storm at sea?" "The unclouded heavens on a starry, moonless night."

"And what is grander than these midnight skies?" "The soul of man"—a spectacular climax such as Hugo loved and still, with all its dramatic effects, the picturesque statement of a vast and sublime and mighty truth.

Hang Up Your Watch.

The question whether it is better to wind a watch at night or in the morning was discussed at a meeting of the British Watch and Clock Makers' guild. The London Express took up the subject and obtained the views of George Russell, an expert on timepieces. "Given a good watch, it does not matter in the least whether you wind it at night or in the morning," he told the reporter. "But a watch never keeps the same time when the position is constantly altered. Watches which are sent to Kew and which are tested in several positions rarely keep the same time. The moral to be drawn, therefore, is keep your watch as much as possible in the position in which you wear it during the day. In other words, hang your watch up at night."

Stricken With Paralysis.

Antonio Bottino, aged nearly 80, was stricken with paralysis last Sunday, at the home of his son-in-law, Jos. Garbaldi, in Volcano. The stroke is a very serious one, involving the whole left side. Dr. Endicott has been there twice. Two daughters from San Francisco came up Tuesday evening, to do what they could for their afflicted parent. At last accounts he was about the same. Not much hopes are entertained of his recovery.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since."

The Ghost Spy.

(Original.)

"General, we bring you a spy. While at work on the breach the enemy made yesterday we discovered this man or boy, whichever he may be, at times working with us, at times looking about him at the approaches, the moat, the walls, as if searching for a weak point. He did not remove his armor, as we did, for freedom to work and kept his visor closed. Suspecting him, we seized him."

"Ah, ha!" exclaimed the general. "Take him to the parapet and hang him in view of the prince who sent him."

A gibbet was erected, a ladder placed in position and the prisoner taken on to the parapet for hanging. He begged that he might offer his last adoration to his God in his own way, and when permission was given him, facing to the west, where the sun was sinking, he bowed low three times.

"He's worse than a heathen," cried the captain of the execution party. "He worships fire. Send him to hell, where he belongs."

The youth was forced to climb the ladder, the noose was put about his neck, and the ladder was kicked away. There were a few jerks and all was quiet.

The night was dark. The sentry who guarded that part of the parapet where the spy hung was obliged to pass and re-pass the ghoulish object on his beat. At first he would not look at it. Then in passing he turned his eyes toward it, as though compelled by a dread fascination. There was nothing of the body to be seen within the armor except a lock of hair that hung below the helmet.

"It doth amaze me," muttered the sentry, "how long these cavaliers wear their locks. Mayhap it serves for a rope whereby Satan lowers them into the burning lake."

Encouraged by the thought, he gave the corpse a poke with his pike. As it swung back toward him he thought he heard a low moan. Darting to the end of his beat, he hid behind a stone projection and could not induce himself to again walk past the body. While he stood shivering in his corner a wind sprang up, swaying the dreaded object and occasionally knocking the steel armor against the gibbet. To shut out the sound he put his fingers in his ears.

When he heard the relief coming he took up his pike and resumed his beat. There was the ghostly thing still swaying in the wind. The sentry was relieved, and his successor, a braver man, marched to and fro on his beat without fear. Once when passing it occurred to him to strike it with his pike. What was his surprise to hear it emit a hollow sound. He struck it again, with the same result. Then he put a hand under one foot and lifted it without any more exertion than would be required to lift an empty suit of armor.

"Captain of the guard," he cried, "the devil has flown away with the spy's body!"

The captain came, examined the armor and stood aghast. Then he reported the fact to the general. The general came, saw and was conquered. They were superstitious in those days, and he believed that the spy was a supernatural being who had come to find out how best the stronghold could be taken. The ghost had seen that but a handful of men defended it. Besides, it had seen a circuitous path that led to the rear, over which a force might come and fire into the works from a greater height. The general went trembling back to his quarters.

The next morning he saw the forces of the enemy drawn up prepared to climb the heights and a detachment moving toward the path leading to his rear. He ordered a white flag displayed on the battlements.

Later a party carrying a litter came up the declivity. In the litter was a girl, pale and languid. A young knight who accompanied her stated that she had been sent to receive the surrender. The general gave it, saying:

"I can fight men, but not spirits. Yesterday a mysterious stranger was observed spying on our works. He had neither the face of man nor woman, but a creature betwixt the two. We hanged him on the parapet that the prince might be deterred from sending others. In the night that which seemed to be a body vanished."

A smile came upon the girl's wan face. "General," she said, "I was this supernatural creature. I volunteered to come and get the information required for your defeat. Before the execution I bowed thrice to the west, which, by a code agreed upon, told the prince your weakness and the best route of procedure. When I was hanged my hair was loose under my helmet and protected my throat from the noose, which, too, caught in a projection of my armor. I remained unconscious till—" She looked at her companion. He said:

"Seeing the body of my affianced bride hanging on the parapet, I resolved to secure it or die. A party brought ladders, by which I crossed the moat and by another climbed the battlement. As I was about to cut the body down I heard a moan. I loosened the noose, took the burden to the other side of the moat and sent a man back with the armor to hang it up, thinking to conceal the theft till we could take counsel. Our brave girl was brought back to consciousness, and the prince gave her the right to receive your surrender."

The girl who had achieved this great work and nerved herself to complete it as soon as the story was told fainted. It is one thing to do the work of a spy, another to be hanged.

Republican Committee Meets.

The republican county central committee met last Monday in Dr. Gall's office at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. There were present the following members: Dr. A. M. Gall and W. D. Dufrene from township one; Dr. E. G. Woolsey and George Yager from township two; C. H. McKinney and Fred Werner from township four; H. E. Potter from township five; township three was unrepresented.

W. M. Amick, chairman of the board of supervisors, and who is a candidate for renomination on the republican side in township two, was also present.

The object of the meeting was to set a time for holding the county convention, fixing the basis of representation thereto, and setting a date for primaries for the election of delegates to said convention.

Owing to peculiar conditions which have arisen in township two on the supervisor question a difficulty arose as to the time for holding the nominating convention. It seems that R. Bagley of Ione has been decided upon by the democrats to make the fight in that district, and their nominating convention has been set for next Monday. Now W. M. Amick, who wants to succeed himself, and R. Bagley, the prospective democratic nominee, are brothers-in-law. It was the wish of Mr. Amick to have the republicans nominate first, believing that in the event of his candidacy Bagley would probably draw out.

The committee, after a full discussion, decided to call the county convention for September 19, and primaries not later than the twelfth, giving the right to the committeemen of each district to call primaries and convention earlier than the above dates should they deem it in the interest of the party to do so.

The number of delegates was apportioned on the basis of the vote cast at the presidential election in 1904, one delegate for each precinct, and one for every fifteen votes or fractional majority thereof.

It was left to the committeemen in the respective districts to select voting places and offices to conduct the primaries.

Republican Delegates.

The republicans of township one held a caucus Saturday evening in Dr. Gall's office for the purpose of selecting a delegate to the state convention.

There were about a dozen in the gathering. Dr. Gall said he had to go to the city Wednesday any way, so he was unanimously elected a delegate to the state convention.

In township four, C. H. McKinney was elected a delegate.

Township 2—Morris Jones.

Township 3 and 5—A. L. McWayne. The last township failed to hold caucus, and the selection of the delegate was made by the county central committee.

Dr. A. W. Sutherland, who recently graduated from the dental college and passed a very creditable examination by the state board of dental examiners, has located in Amador City. His professional card appears in the proper column in this issue. He has finished his office with all the necessary appliances of an up-to-date dentistry establishment, and is prepared to do all kinds of work after the most approved methods.

The adjourned quarterly conference will meet at the Methodist church on Monday evening, Aug. 31. It is very important that every official member be present to transact important business. This will be the last official meeting for this conference year. Please attend.

Miss Vannie McLaughlin left this morning for Portland, Oregon, where she is engaged to teach school for the ensuing term. She taught there last term. She was too late for the regular stage, and had to get a private conveyance to take her to Martelle, where she arrived in ample time to take the train.

The Stockton Independent of Wednesday reports that a marriage license was issued in that city authorizing the marriage of William H. Wonderley, formerly of Sutter Creek, but now of Sonoma, to Miss Lilah Eggleston of Sutter Creek. Mr. Wonderley was engaged in this county for a number of years as agent for the Singer sewing machine, with headquarters at Sutter Creek.

Dr. Gall left Wednesday to attend the state convention. He will return this evening or tomorrow.

Mrs. H. Seeman, of Railroad Flat, who is quite ill, is under treatment at Dr. Goodman's hospital, as is also Mrs. F. Z. Fowler of the same place. The latter was accompanied by her husband, who returned home this week.—Record

Glavinovich Stock Sold, Purchaser Finally Withdraws.

The stock in the general merchandise store of L. J. Glavinovich has been purchased by Jos. Gluckfeld. The price according to street talk is $6100. The creditors have been looking into the affairs of the merchant for the past week; the board of trade had its representative here, also some eastern firms were personally represented. They were satisfied that the value of the stock was considerably in excess of his liabilities. But of course it was cash they wanted, and this was not to be had. So he was given an opportunity to endeavor to sell the stock as a whole. This he effected through Mr. Gluckfeld, who buys, everything in the store in the shape of stock and fixtures. The sale does not include the book debts, horses and wagons. A few days will have to elapse before the deal can be consummated and the purchaser take charge. Mr. Gluckfeld has bought the stock as a speculation. It is variously estimated to invoice from $10,000 to $12,000, and is mostly good salable stock. The liabilities of Glavinovich are estimated at from $8,000 to $9,000. The heaviest creditor is S. G. Spagnoli, Glavinovich's father-in-law. He telegraphed up here from Point Richmond that the creditors need not take his claim into consideration in effecting a settlement. In other words whatever sum was received from the stock could be distributed first to the payment of other creditors, and the balance, if any turned over to the debtor.

There is little doubt that the sale will go through. An idea prevails that Mr. Gluckfeld will move from his present quarters into the Glavinovich premises. There is nothing settled on this point. He will at once have a big sale and dispose of the Glavinovich stock first. In any event he will not continue the grocery and provision line.

Later—While the situation stood as above Wednesday, on Thursday morning the negotiations were declared off. In explanation Mr. Gluckfeld says that on further consideration he concluded that it would not be advantageous to complete the bargain, and hence he notified Mr. Glavinovich of his withdrawal. He had put up a small forfeit—$200—to bind the arrangement and this he of course surrenders.

What course Mr. Glavinovich will take now is undecided. He expects to sell out the stock on his own account, and if he can give security to the creditors he will be allowed to do so. There is no claim that there is any crookedness on his part, and everyone hopes he will be able to make arrangements to dispose of his large stock to the best advantage to himself.

Electric Light System for Ione.

W. G. Snyder and T. J. Burrows have purchased the interest of D. McCall in the electric pole line running from Martell station to Ione. The interest consists of one half interest in this property; the other half is held by Chas. Erickson of the L. and E. road. The pole line is already wired, with connections made for 400 lights in Ione. This work was done some time ago, but for some reason the lighting scheme at that time fell through probably on account of the complicated ownership. The line and wiring will have to be carefully overhauled. Also a line will have to be run to the Standard Electric power line at the Oneida, or to the American River line. It is thought that from three weeks to a month will suffice to get the line in working shape. W. G. Snyder will personally supervise the work of putting the line in shape, but of course will not neglect his law business in doing so. The people of Ione are anxious to have the lights, and the news will be glad tidings to that town.

Diarrhoea Cured

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Philippi, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's colic, colera and diarrhoea remedy advertised in the Philippi Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old, can do as much work as a young man." Sold by Jackson's drug store, Spagnoli, Prop.

Card Party.

Thursday afternoon Misses Emma Palmieri and Louise Cassinelli entertained a party of young friends at hearts, at Mrs. Frank Podesta's residence. Those present were: Messes Maysie Garbarino, Julia Ginochio, Amy Clark, Emma Cassinelli, Olive Gordon, Mable Bolitho, Emma Palmieri, Louise Cassinelli. Prizes were won by Julia Ginochio, Mable Bolitho, Emma Cassinelli. Refreshments were served, the table and dining room were beautifully decorated in red carnations.

Ball Game Sunday.

On the Jackson diamond last Sunday the baseball players of Electra contested for supremacy with a team from Sutter Creek. It was one of the most intensely interesting games witnessed this season on account mainly of the closeness of the score, and the doubtful issue of the contest until the very last innings had been played. The boys from Electra managed to come out on top, with one score to the good, the score being 6 to 5 in favor of Electra.

Sold the Ranch.

Mrs. Sharenbroch, who has lived on the Sharenbroch ranch, about four miles northeast of this city, for many years, has sold or rather exchanged the ranch to G. Johnson, of San Francisco. Mr. Johnson took possession several weeks ago, with his family, consisting of five persons, namely, himself and wife, and one boy, and his father and mother. Mrs. Sharenbroch exchanged her Amador county property for a house and lot in South San Francisco, and moved to the new home about a month ago. Her two sons, Fred and Herman, remained to settle up all business, and left for San Francisco Wednesday morning, to make their home with the rest of the family.

DOCUMENTS RECORDED.

[The following instruments have been filed for record in the recorder's office since our last report. We publish a complete list of documents recorded, and must decline to accede to any request to suppress any document from these columns. Don't ask us to do so.]

Deeds—Henry Malloch et ux to John Martin, land in 18-7-11 and a 3-10 mineral right, $10.

J. M. Post to Matilda Post, 79.95 acres in 5-6-11, and land in 5 and 8-6-11, love and affection.

D. McCall to W. G. Snyder et al, an electric pole line between Martells and Ione and right of way; also 1/2 acres near high school, $10.

Mary J. Hartman to James Craze, lot 1 block 2, Jackson, $10.

Charles W. Randall et ux to John Martin, land in 8 and 17-6-11 and a 3-10 mineral right, $10.

Agreement—Newton Copper Co. to I. & E. R. Co., right of way, $300.

Locations—Frank Garibaldi locates the Gold Dust placer claim in 22-7-12.

James Grillo locates the Humbug placer claim about one mile west of Volcano.

Arthur F. Adams et al locate 160 acres in 6-6-13 and 1-6-12 as a placer mine near West Point bridge.

A Faithful Friend

"I have used Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy since it was first introduced to the public in 1872, and have never found one instance where a cure was not speedily effected by its use. I have been a commercial traveler for eighteen years, and never start out on a trip without this, my faithful friend," says H. S. Nichols of Oakland, Ind. Ter. When a man has used a remedy for thirty-five years he knows its value and is competent to speak of it. For sale by Jackson's drug store, Spagnoli, Prop.

Clipped from our Exchanges

From Near-by Counties.

News was received this week of the death of I. P. Lambing, a native of Idaho, who died in Denver, Colorado, July, 16, after an illness of one week at the age of 78 years. The people here will remember Mr. Lambing well as he lived among us for about thirty years. He will be remembered mostly for his energy and inventive ability, as the patentee of a self-filling dredger bucket with which he solved the difficulty of mining low ground without a fall for water, and successfully operating his system, for many years on Dry Creek, at the place that still bears his name. We understand he mined ground in Colorado with the same system successfully.—Echo.

Mrs. Mary Clark died at her home in Ione, on Tuesday, August 17, 1908. Mrs. Clark was an old and highly respected resident of Ione having lived at or near Ione since coming to this state. She was born in Ireland in 1834, came to America in 1845. Was married in Massachusetts in 1851 to Owen Dooley, by which marriage four children were born; Eugene, Kate, Thomas and Mrs. Lizzie Martin, all of whom are living but Kate. In 1866, she was again married to Hugh Clark, having four children, Edward, Herman, Mrs. Alice Wheeler and Mrs. Ella Miller, all of whom are living but Herman. She was interred in the Catholic cemetery, Thursday, Rev. Father Kearney officiating.—Echo.

The Whitaker Estate of Galt that purchased the butcher shop in Ione recently, do all their killing at Galt. Geo. Harris went down Monday to take charge of the slaughtering.—Echo.

N. Ardittio, who has been working at mining in Colordao for over two years past, returned to his old home in this section Monday of last week. At the time of the failure of the Sutter Creek State Bank, he had on deposit over $2,000 of hard earned coin. How much of it he will recover remains to be seen, but it is hoped it will be all.—Amador Record.

Henry Jones, who got his foot badly burned with slag at the Campo Seco Copper mine about five weeks ago, and has since been in the St. Joseph's Hospital in Stockton, came up Wednesday to stay a week or so at the home of his brother, J. Jones.

The county central committee of the republican party met in San Andreas last Sunday and was called to order at 10 o'clock a. m. by P. F. Pacheco, chairman. The following were present: P. F. Pacheco, chairman; J. Dietz, F. O. Washburn, W. S. Dennis, A. L. Willie, and E. B. Moore, secretary. A call was issued for primaries to be held in the various precincts of the county Saturday, September 12th, for the purpose of electing delegates to attend a county convention to be held at San Andreas on Saturday, September 19th.—Prospect.

James Riley has resigned his position at the Omega mine to accept one of responsibility at one of the big properties in Amador county. He is to assume his duties on September 1st. Mr. Riley was in Sonora, where he owns a home, last Saturday. He left Monday for San Francisco, where he will rejoin Mrs. Riley and their child and the three proceed from the metropolis to Amador City.—Sonora Democrat.

I was somewhat astonished to hear that with the issue of August 15th the old Calaveras Chronicle had suspended publication. The Chronicle was surely a landmark of the county, for it was established in October 1851. Mr. Burce, the present editor, has been connected with the paper in one way or another ever since 1871, and since 1880 was its owner. For the past four months the paper has devoted its columns mostly to mining and we believe it has done a great deal of good for this mining district, but it seems that those most directly interested did not appreciate its efforts, since for want of support it has become a thing of the past.—Citizen.

The Scrap Book

A Boy's Answer.

An inspector was examining a class of school children in religious knowledge, and among other things asked for was a definition of a lie. Immediately up shot a boy's hand and in a piping treble came the reply. "A lie is an abomination to the Lord, but a very pleasant help in time of trouble."

PATRIOTISM.

Breathes there the man with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said, "This is my own, my native land?" Whose heart hath been within him burned As home his footsteps he hath turned From wandering on a foreign strand? If such there breathe, go, mark him well: For him no minstrel raptures swell. High though his titles, proud his name, Boundless his wealth as wish can claim—Despite those titles, power and pelf, The wretch, concentered all in self, Living, shall forfeit fair renown And, doubly dying, shall go down To the vile dust from whence he sprang Unwept, unhonored and unsung. —Sir Walter Scott.

Had 'Em Again.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell tells with keen enjoyment of the experience of a medical friend of his who engaged a nurse, recently graduated, for a case of delirium tremens. The physician succeeded in quieting his patient and left some medicine, instructing the nurse to administer it to him if he "began to see snakes again." At the next call the physician found the patient again raving. To his puzzled inquiry the nurse replied that the man had been going on that way for several hours and that she had not given him any medicine. "But didn't I tell you to give it to him if he began to see snakes again?" demanded the physician. "But he didn't see snakes this time," replied the nurse confidently. "He saw red, white and blue turkeys with straw hats on."—Lippincott's.

Not Enough Children.

She asked him if he was the photographer. He said he was. She asked him if he took children's pictures. He said he did. She asked him how much he charged. He said, "Four dollars a dozen." "Then I'll have to go somewhere else," she replied. "I only have eleven."—Success Magazine.

Taking Care of Papa.

Rev. A. C. Dixon of Chicago, upon leaving home for a long journey, kissed his four-year-old boy goodbye, saying, "I want you to be a little man while father is away, and I want you to be sure to take care of mamma." The boy looked at his father with his big eyes very gravely. "Yes, papa," he answered. "I will take care of mamma." That night the boy knelt and prayed: "Please, Lord, take care of papa, who has gone away. Please take care of grandfather. Please take care of auntie. Please take care of Mary. But, Lord, you needn't take care of mamma. I'm going to take care of her myself."

Doubly Blessed.

It was sentence day in the city court. A man in the prisoners' pen, who had been sentenced to two years for larceny, began to cry softly. The big man next to him, who was going to serve seven years for bigamy, said: "Aw, wotcher sniffin' about?" "I'm—I'm—th-th-thinkin' about leavin' [sob] my—my—family—lea-leavin' my wife—" "Aw, cut it out! Look at me. I ain't cryin', am I? An' I'm leavin' two of 'em."—Everybody's.

Presence of Mind.

Two Irishmen, having a grievance against a farmer, decided to rob him one night. In order to reach the place where the valuables were kept, they had to pass the bedroom of the farmer and his wife.

Pat told Mike to remain where he was until he had passed the bedroom, when Mike was to follow. As Pat crept forward the floor creaked loudly, and the farmer's wife, being awakened by the noise, immediately awoke her husband and told him that there was somebody in the other room.

Pat heard this and began meowing like a cat, when the farmer said, "Oh, it's only the cat," and turned over to sleep again. Mike now followed, and the floor creaked as before. The farmer's wife again told her husband that there was somebody in the next room and told him to investigate.

"Never mind," cried Mike; "it's only another cat!"—Judge's Library.

When You're Safe.

"Hinnersey," said Mr. Dooley, "this is great talkin' about Christian Science, hey?"

"Yes," said Mr. Hinnersey, "and what do you think about it?"

"Well," said Mr. Dooley, "I think that if the Christian Scientists had a little more science and the doctors had a little more Christianity it wouldn't make any difference which you called in—if you had a good nurse."—Finley Peter Dunne.

The Benevolent Peddler.

"I have told you a dozen times I don't want the machine! Sick him, Tige!" said the exasperated woman of the house.

Peddler (while the dog is gnawing his leg)—Don't want the machine, ma'am? Pardon me, you haven't yet seen half its good points. It washes the clothes cleaner than any other and in less than half the time. It never tears off a button. It—

"Good heavens! Don't you see what the dog is doing?"

"Yes. Quite a playful animal. This machine, ma'am, uses less soap, takes up less room!"

"He'll tear you to pieces if you don't go! Run, for mercy's sake! He's tasted blood, and I'm afraid I can't make him stop now!"

"I have to put up with such things, ma'am, and it's in a good cause. This machine is the best one that ever was invented. If I can succeed in introducing one into a family I always feel that I have done a benevolent act. You can use any kind of water, hard or soft, hot or—"

"Oh, oh, oh! He'll kill you! What is the machine worth?"

"It's worth a million dollars in any family, but I'm selling it for only $5, and—"

"Here's your money. I'll take it. Tige, Tige, let go!"

"Let him chew, ma'am; let him chew. It's a wooden leg. I've got another one at home all ready for use when this one is worn out. Looks as if we were going to have rain. Remember you can use any kind of water, and if your soap is all right you can— There! He's got tired of it. Good dog, Tige; good dog! Well, I must be going. Afternoon, ma'am."

Woman—a Mystery.

You gaze at a star for two motives, because it is luminous and because it is impenetrable. You have by your side a sweeter radiance and greater mystery—woman.—Victor Hugo.

A Gambler on Gambling.

We live in this world where nearly everybody is a gambler. Hence it is but natural that there should be gambling.

There are only three things you don't gamble for—your room, clothes and food. Everything else connected with life is gambling.

You seek employment; you gamble for a better place.

You go to an insurance company and have your property insured against fire. Well, don't you gamble there? Don't you bet the company that you may have a fire, and they bet you you may not? Your premium is the odds you get.

You have your life insured; you enter into a gamble with the insurance company.

You invest your money; you gamble there again, and so on all along the line.—Richard Canfield.

Curious of the Future.

"Have you fixed up my will just the way I told you?" asked the sick man, who was the possessor of many needy relatives and some well to do but grasping ones.

"I have," asserted the lawyer. "Just as strong and tight as you can make it, eh?" asked the client. The lawyer nodded.

"All right," said the sick man. "Now I want to ask you one thing—not professionally—who do you think stands the best chance of getting the property when I'm gone?"—Youth's Companion.

Poor Land.

Once a Kansas farmer met on the hot, dusty road a homesteader pushing on excitedly toward the Cherokee strip.

"What ye bound?" said the farmer. "Fer a hundred and sixty acres o' free land in the strip," was the reply. And the man vanished in the glitter of dust and sunshine.

A month or two went by, and on the same dusty road the Kansas farmer met the homesteader returning.

"Hello," he said, "what ye done with them hundred and sixty acres?"

The homesteader pointed his whip proudly toward his mule team. "See them mules?" said he. "Well, I traded eighty acres of my claim fer 'em."

"What ye do with the other eighty?" "Don't glimme away," was the reply, "but the feller was a tenderfoot, and I run in the other eighty acres on him without his knowin' it."

A Suggestion From Japan.

A young Japanese, with the national love of cleanliness, came to London to study. As he was a stranger in the city he had to select his own lodgings.

His first choice was not happy. The hall especially was very dirty. This the newcomer did not like, but decided to say nothing then.

One rainy day the maidservant put up this notice: "Please wipe your feet." Seizing his opportunity, the Japanese student wrote underneath, "On going out"—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Laughter of Childhood.

The laugh of a child will make the holiest day more sacred still. Strike with hand of fire, O weird musician, thy harp strung with Apollo's golden hair; fill the vast cathedral aisles with symphonies sweet and dim, deft touch of the organ keys; blow, bugler, blow until thy silver notes do touch and kiss the moonlit waves and charm the lovers wandering mid vine clad hills. But know your sweetest strains are discords all compared with childhood's happy laugh—the laugh that fills the eyes with light and every heart with joy.

O rippling river of laughter, thou art the blessed boundary line between the beasts and men, and every wayward wave of thine doth drown some fretful fiend of care.

O laughter, rose lipped daughter of Joy, there are dimples enough in thy cheeks to catch and hold and glorify all the fears of grief.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

With an Eye to Business.

At a dinner given in Washington in honor of Admiral Dewey's seventieth birthday the famous sailor after drinking from a loving cup that belonged to George Washington said:

"This wine is superb. It is as fine in its way as the sign that I once saw over an inn door in Germany. The sign read:

"'Good beer sold here, but don't take my word for it. Hans Schwartz, Prop.'"

Safe Gasoline Storage.—The Wireless Telephone Receiver.—Greatest Head for Water-Power.—A Novel Art.—Colors in Plant-Growing.—An Unexplored Big River.—The Lure of Light.—The Fuel Chemist's Problem.

Experiment has shown that gasoline tanks are kept quite cool in the hottest conflagration if they are buried beneath 20 inches of earth; and Martin and Huenecke have made storage and distribution practically safe by providing an underground reservoir, with a special double delivery pipe and filling the upper part of the tank with carbonic acid gas under pressure. This prevents the formation of any explosive mixture of inflammable gas and air, as well as explosion from expansion of vapor by heating. The inner pipe leads from the bottom of the tank to the self-closing delivery cock, the liquid being forced out by the pressure of the inert gas; and the outer pipe stops at the top of the reservoir, being therefore filled only with inert gas. In a great fire in Berlin 30,000 gallons of gasoline lay safely in an underground reservoir beneath ruins burning for 24 hours.

In the Poulsen wireless telephony, adopted by the German Wireless Telegraph Co., speech is received by placing in the ordinary telephonic circuit a Scholmilch electrolytic detector, comprising a vessel of dilute sulphuric acid with two electrodes, the negative with a very fine point. The smallness of the negative and its film of hydrogen bubbles from electrolysis make the normal resistance of the detector cell very high. The high-frequency oscillations from the aerial electric waves tend to dissipate the hydrogen bubbles, increasing the telephone current, and the variations set up by speaking into the microphone at the sending station produce like variations in the current through detector and telephone, reproducing the spoken words.

The six turbines of a Norway factory are to receive water through a 7-mile tunnel from a lake 3536 feet above sea level, the total head being 3287 feet, or 72 feet greater than the highest hitherto.

The strange new industry of weaving concrete poles and tubes suggests revolutionary possibilities, and not least of the advantages it offers is an important lessening of the demands upon our forests. Both hollow tapering poles and straight tubes or pipes are made automatically by the wonderful machine just installed in London. In manufacture, a metal core has the strengthening steel wires or rods attached to it, and as it is rotated and gradually passed out of the machine, a small conveyor belt wraps spirally around it, under great pressure, a layer of concrete and a bandage of cloth. After the concrete is given a little time to harden, the core is withdrawn and the bandage removed. Poles 40 feet long are extremely light—the shell being 1 to 2 inches thick—yet as strong as iron poles, and for carrying telegraph and other electric wires they are cheaper than iron and even wood, while they are superior in appearance and durability. The pipes—in lengths up to 20 feet and diameters up to 2 feet—are very strong, and more durable and economical than iron pipes for water and gas mains, sewers, etc.

Tests with red, green, blue and white light during the last two years have shown a French experiment that colors have effects on vegetation that may prove of great practical importance. Under red light, for instance, the growth of vegetables was fifteen times as rapid as under blue light. Blue light on the other hand, had a remarkable preservative power on growing vegetation, and two years after planting, the first leaves of an oak tree were as fresh and vigorous as ever. Of even greater economic value seems the discovery that ripe fruit keeps remarkably under a blue screen, showing no decay after several weeks.

The world's greatest river is located by Prof. Mudd in Australia. Peculiar geological conditions lead much of the water of this continent underground, and he estimates that a great subterranean river flowing through the center is as much as 200 miles wide.

The fight of Massachusetts against the gypsy and brown-tail moths has been going on for years, and large sums have been expended for spraying trees, destroying eggs, and experimenting with moth-parasites. These methods, however, have proven clumsy and inefficient. They have emphasized the need of a real and economical exterminator, and this long-sought boon seems to have been discovered at last in the remarkable electric-light trap reported from Zittau, Saxony. This apparatus in portable form should be able to free a large area from pests of moths and caterpillars at comparatively small cost. The trap includes two powerful search-lights, and these are arranged over powerful exhaust fans, which suck the air into a deep receptacle. In the first trial, the trap has been placed at the top of the municipal electric station. The reflectors at night, throw two great streams of light upon the wooded mountain sides a half mile away, and the effect has been amazing. Lured along the great white ways, the moths have come in fluttering armies. At a certain distance from the reflectors, the draught from the fans catches the dazed victims, which are then whirled into the pit beneath. The first night's catch of three tons should mark a new era.

With the coal consumption of the United States grown to more than 400,000,000 tons annually, the use of coal in the last ten years having been more than in the preceding century, it is humiliating and appalling to reflect that less than five per cent of the total heat value is converted into useful work. The best power plants utilize only ten per cent of the energy of the fuel, locomotives only three to five per cent, and electric incandescent lamps only one-seventh of one per cent. To reduce this enormous waste is one of the great engineering problems. Nearly 2,000,000 horsepower of the waste is represented by gas from blast furnaces, and this loss is now being lessened by installations of gas engines.

A COOL GUN FIGHTER.

Shot His Man and Then Leisured Proceeded to Sip a Cocktail.

"When I went to Tombstone, Ariz., in 1880 to practice law, there were many desperate characters in that community," said Hon. Marcus A. Smith, who has been delegate in congress from that territory for the biggest part of the past twenty-two years. "At one time I could have mentioned by name no fewer than thirty-five men who stood in the front rank of 'killers.' With one exception, I believe there was not one of the entire crowd who did not die with his boots on, slain by a bullet from a Colt navy six or a Winchester, in the same fashion he had himself meted out death to many of his fellows.

"It was the inexorable hand of fate that these semicivilized beings should get their quietus by violence. Yet some of them were as gentle in their ways as the veriest dude who strolls mincingly along Pennsylvania avenue and apparently as harmless. I recall a fair skinned, blue eyed young fellow—all your killers have blue eyes—named Harry Leslie. He was a Georgia boy and evidently the child of decent, well bred people.

"One day while in the act of taking a drink in a saloon in Tombstone some one whispered in his ear that an enemy was waiting just outside with a Winchester and swearing to kill him the moment he emerged from the bar-room. Putting down his untouched liquor, Leslie walked to the door, whipped out his revolver and sent a bullet crashing into the brain of the intending murderer, who never even got his rifle presented. It was the most quickly acted drama I ever saw. As soon as he watched his man fall prone to the earth Leslie walked back as cool as if it were the most trifling detail of life and leisurely sipped his cocktail.

"I was his lawyer when he was put to trial for his life, and the jury acquitted him after being out only a few minutes."—Baltimore American.

Too Big For the Booth.

Diners in a Broadway restaurant the other night were amused when a young lady wearing an enormous white straw hat trimmed with flaring red wings walked up to the telephone booth in the corner and started to enter. She evidently had forgotten she was wearing her "Merry Widow," for she fetched up against the sides of the door with a bang, her hat failing to clear the opening by a good three inches on either side. However, the young lady was equal to the emergency. She calmly grasped the brim of her hat with both hands, tilted it to one side and glided through the door like a sailboat going through a draw-bridge. Up to this time there had been smiles and grins, but when the young lady tried to draw the door to and found that it would not shut at all with her hat inside the room broke into a roar of laughter that shook up even the most imperturbable waiter.—New York Press.

Fought Under Six Flags.

A remarkable soldier has just died at Budapest in the person of General Stephen Turr, one of the bravest revolutionary generals that ever lived. He commenced his military career as a lieutenant in the Austrian army. Then he fought for the Hungarian revolutionary government, helped to quell a German revolution and joined Garibaldi in his great struggle. On the outbreak of the Crimean war he served as a volunteer in Omar Pasha's army against Russia and finally received a commission in the British transport service. It was while buying horses for the British army at Budapest in 1855 that the general was seized by the Austrians as a deserter and sentenced to death. But both the British and French governments made such emphatic protests against this sentence that it was commuted to banishment. Finally the old soldier settled down in Paris.

Memphis on the Nile.

Memphis on the Nile, one of the greatest capitals of the ancient world, is buried beneath the ground which is now under cultivation by the villagers of Mitrahineh, who will have to be transferred to other plots and compensated before the contemplated work of excavation can proceed very far. It is estimated that an expenditure of about $15,000 annually for fifteen years will be required to excavate the temple sites, apart from the city. The unearthing of Memphis, which contained the finest school of Egyptian art, will be by far the greatest archaeological work of recent times and must result in a vast addition to the world's knowledge of ancient Egyptian history and civilization. The work will soon be begun by Professor Petrie, head of the British School of Archaeology in Egypt.

A Lazy Boy's Invention.

The long handled shovel has made over $300,000 for its inventor, and the inventor was a lazy, shiftless boy of seventeen named Reuben Davis, whose father lived in Vermont at the time. He set Reuben to digging dirt and loading it on a wagon, and the short handled shovel made the boy's back ache. One afternoon when his father was away he took out the short handle and substituted a long one and found the work much easier.

When the father returned home Reuben got a thrashing, but after the old man had used the shovel himself he said that it was a good thing and got it patented. They are now manufactured almost by the million. That boy's backache turned out to be a good thing for the Davis family.

THE STATE TAX RATE.

Although not officially announced, it is understood that the rate of taxation for state purposes this year will be 40 cents on the $100. This is the lowest rate ever reached in the history of the state. The next lowest was last year, when the rate was 44½ cents. Only ten times, all within the last twenty-five years, has the rate been under 50 cents. The highest state tax was in 1864, when $1.25 was levied to carry on the government. For the four years succeeding that year the rate was $1 or over. But those were the days of internecine war, and the reconstruction period immediately succeeding the appeal to arms. Extraordinary demands upon the federal governments in that crisis called for heavy requisitions from the taxpayers, both for state and national purposes.

The low rate for this year speaks well for the present management of state affairs. There has been a gratifying increase in the assessment roll, amounting, as compared with the previous year, to one hundred and nine million dollars. While taxable property has increased in the ratio of a little over five per cent, the tax rate has decreased about nine per cent. A few wise laws of recent years have helped the state's finances materially. Chief of these is the sale of all property for delinquent taxes to the state, instead of allowing private parties to purchase the pick of it for the amount of taxes and costs. This law has diverted many thousands of dollars every year into state and county treasuries that theretofore had flowed into the pockets of individuals. Then again, the corporation license tax, and later still, the hunters' license law, have proved effective revenue getters.

A few wise changes in the laws would speedily bring about a like reduction in the tax rate for county purposes. The arbitrary boosting of the assessment roll without any corresponding rise in actual values, has been tried and found wanting. These spurious reforms have accentuated the taxpayers' troubles. But if some genuine statesman would come along and knock the insanity features out of the road law, and also revise the fee schedules of the superior court, and all county officials, it would work wonders in relieving the burdens of local taxation.

S. Penry, the democratic candidate for assemblyman in Sacramento, is having a strenuous time. The Bee charges that he was mixed up in some shady transactions in connection with certain filings on public land, and that his name should be taken off the ticket. The Union also joins in the fight. Penry, however, refuses to be forced off the ticket under fire, and says the charges are false, and prompted by ulterior motives. According to published accounts he launched out upon a tirade of the newspapers at the special democratic convention held this week to nominate a senator in place of Judge McLaughlin, who could not be persuaded to make the running. Among other things he is reported to have made the following astounding break, according to the Union:

If I am elected to the legislature I will never vote to curtail the liberty of the press, but every lying newspaper man who attacks any man, or the sacred precincts of his home and family, should be dealt with, and the man who takes the life of such a newspaper man would be justified in his act.

It is hardly believeable that Penry would be so indiscreet as to give voice in a public gathering to such sentiments. If he did so in the excitement of the occasion, he must surely repudiate them in his calmer moments. Politics must be getting a little torrid in the capital city.

We again remind our readers that registration, so far as it entitles a man to vote at the coming election, closes on the 23d of September. It is incumbent upon every citizen to re-register this year, and if he fails to do so on or before the above-mentioned date, he will lose his vote. Every voter not already on the new great register should attend to this important duty without delay, by appearing before the county clerk or one of his deputies in the various precincts, and making the necessary affidavit. Registration is progressing very slowly, and voters will have to get a move on soon or there will a shrinkage in the number of ballots cast.

Byran has formulated his campaign phrase "Let the people rule," implying that under existing conditions the people do not rule. Taft gets back with the statement that "the people do rule." Paradoxical as it may seem, both statements are in a measure correct. There is a good deal of the demagogue about the Nebraskan's visionary theories. They are put forward in the same spirit as the Denver platform upon which he stands was framed. He wants to tickle the popular ear, hoping thereby to gather in a few scattering votes. He knows full well that if he were president the people would not rule to any greater extent than they do now, notwithstanding his advocacy of the impracticable initiative and referendum. Taft takes a practical view. The people choose their lawmakers, and that is about the only way they can govern themselves. There may be, and doubtless always will be, some conditions that might not meet with popular approval if the people had the direct say in the matter.

ANCIENT BABYLON.

It Was Only a Village Compared With Modern London.

Another historical lie has been nailed to the counter by the German Oriental society, which has been engaged recently in uncovering the ruins of ancient Babylon.

In its report, just published, it states that practically the whole area of the city has now been laid bare and the foundations of the inclosing wall traced throughout its entire length.

The space occupied by the city was barely one square mile as compared with London's seventy, and the buildings were plain, unpretentious structures of sun dried bricks. The famous wall was about thirty feet high by four miles long and was pierced by four gates.

Herodotus made this same wall fifty miles long and a hundred feet high, with 100 gates. But then these old historians were prone to exaggeration.

They gave the world to understand, for instance, that the Colossus of Rhodes bestrode the harbor with its feet so wide apart that an hour's hard rowing was necessary in order to pass from one to the other. As a matter of fact, the statue was not a striding one, and its height was 120 feet only as compared with the 150 feet of the statue of Liberty which dominates New York harbor.

And as it is with this, so it is with most of the other wonders of the ancient world. Pompey's pillar, for example, would be dwarfed if placed alongside the Nelson column. The Albert memorial, erected in Hyde park by Queen Victoria in memory of the prince consort, is larger and more splendid than the temple built by Queen Artemisia at Halicarnassus in honor of her husband, Mausolus. A score of Ninevehs could be contained within the area of modern London, while the palace of Cyrus, which we were gravely assured was cemented with gold, was quite an ordinary edifice by comparison with, say, the new war office in Parliament street.—Pearson's Weekly.

Cosmopolitan New York.

Just think of it! New York is the first Irish city of the world. Belfast, the biggest city in Ireland, has a population of only 400,000, while this city has an Irish population of nearly 600,000. It is, moreover, the real metropolis of the Jewish race, since it has a population of 725,000. Warsaw has not quite 300,000. As for Germans, it is the third German city of the world, with nearly 700,000 native German inhabitants. Berlin and Hamburg alone exceeding her in this respect.

New York is, further, the second Austrian city in the world, the fifth Swedish, the sixth Norwegian, the seventh Italian and the eighth Russian city in the universe.—New York World.

Village Income From Golf.

The village of Brancaster has made an arrangement with the Royal West Norfolk Golf club under which it receives 4 per cent of the club's gross income, with a guarantee of not less than $250 in any year, for the use of the land which has been converted into links. Each year the money is distributed equally among householders of not less than twelve months' residence. This year's distribution has just been made, and the club paid over $115, an increase of $12 upon last year's contribution. The amount sufficed to give every householder in Brancaster $1.25 and leave a balance in hand.—London Standard.

Electric Campaign Cane.

An electric campaign cane is being manufactured as one of the novelties of the approaching presidential campaign. The handle of the cane is modeled to represent the head of the candidate in whose interests the cane is being carried. Inside the head, which is of glass, is a small electric bulb, which lights it up at night in an effective manner. Instead of being fastened directly to the upper end of the cane, the illuminated head is connected with it by a leather sleeve or neck and bobs back and forth with the swing of carrying it. The battery is placed within this sleeve.—Popular Mechanics.

The Cocked Hat.

Of course there is no reason why Mr. (or, rather, Viscount) Morley should not wear a cocked hat, but there is hardly any man whom the mind has greater difficulty in associating with that type of head covering and scarcely any type of head covering that would seem less befitting for that austere and philosophic brow. The greater the natural dignity of the wearer the more ridiculous it makes him look. Any scheme for the reform of the house of lords ought to provide for its abolition.—Manchester Courier.

Glories and Gloom.

The students of Yale university have invented some new slang descriptive of important conditions which affect the lives of young men. Here are some additions to the Yale vernacular: "A glory"—A young woman of unusual attractiveness.

"A gloom"—A young woman of far less than average attractiveness; vide "lemon."

"A ball of fire"—A young woman whose beauty and charm are irresistible. An ideal guest for college parties; vide "peach," "pippin," "corker," etc.—New York Times.
